Moeve has appointed David Liras as its new Chief Digital and Information Officer, reinforcing its commitment to technological and digital transformation—key pillar of its Positive Motion strategy to become a benchmark in the energy transition. With his appointment, the Information and Digital Systems areas have been merged into a single team within the Technology, Projects, and Services Department.

"David Liras' appointment and the creation of this new team will enable us to accelerate Moeve's technological and digital transformation, both essential for leading the energy transition. His strategic vision, extensive technological expertise, and keen business acumen will be crucial in driving this transformation," said José Manuel Martínez, Director of Technology, Projects, and Services at Moeve.

David Liras said: "It's a tremendous opportunity to lead the company's technological and digital strategy and steer its transformation into a benchmark in the energy transition. I'm glad to be supported by an exceptional team, talented and fully committed to being the driving force behind the company's evolution."

David Liras holds a degree in computer engineering from the Pontifical University of Salamanca and has furthered his education at institutions such as MIT, ESADE, and IE. With over 15 years of experience at Moeve, he has held various leadership roles in Digital and Information Systems, most recently serving as Director in this area for the Chemicals business.

Moeve is a global company comprising over 11,000 employees, committed to sustainable energy and mobility, with the ambition to drive Europe's energy transition and accelerate decarbonisation both within the company and for its customers.

After leading the energy sector as Cepsa for more than 95 years, the company launched its new brand, Moeve, in October 2024. This new identity reflects the acceleration of its transformation to lead the production of sustainable energy powered by green molecules, including green hydrogen and second-generation biofuels, as well as sustainable chemical products. It is also developing an extensive network of ultrafast electric chargers in Spain and Portugal to boost sustainable mobility.

Through its 2030 Positive Motion strategic plan, Moeve is working to transform mobility and energy to create a better world, ensuring today's energy supply while focusing on sustainable energy solutions for the future.
